

A 'hot drill' staged

Firemen battle practice blazes

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

How to you practice fighting fires?

One way is to find five old, abandoned structures reasonably isolated from other buildings and scheduled to be torn down anyway and to pick a day with some moisture in the air but no strong winds.

It also helps if some of the firemen are handy with flammable liquid and a railroad flare.

The Ontario, Upland and Montclair fire departments brushed up on their firefighting techniques Thursday by repeatedly setting — and, of course, putting out — fires on three small homes and two garages at the southwest corner of Benson Avenue and Arrow Highway in Upland.

Although the "hot drill" served as a training exercise, Upland Fire Chief Don Justis noted joint effort by two or more departments "could be an everyday occurrence" under the West End's new automatic mutual aid agreement.

That agreement — which also includes the Foothill Fire Protection District — allows the closest engine company to respond to fires without regard to city boundaries.

Smoke began billowing from the first old home shortly after 10:30 a.m. and the training session continued until about 5 p.m.

The three engine companies — one from each city — remained in radio contact with the central Ontario dispatcher in case of the real thing. Firefighters were rotated and about 30 took part in the drill.

In addition to giving the firefighters a chance to work with other crews, Upland Battalion Chief Don Johnson noted the firemen were moved up in rank as part of the training.

Referring to some of the departments' upper echelons during a short pre-fire conference, he said, "We aren't going to tell you what to do."

He pointed out firefighters move up a notch in rank to fill in for missing or off-duty personnel at fires.

The training session also allowed for experimentation.

Or as Joe Piscione, Ontario division chief, put it: "We've got nothing to lose but some buildings we're going to lose anyway."

Johnson said the trench ventilation — a longer, narrower hole Montclair firefighters chopped in the roof of one home instead of square ventilation — was a new technique that worked well and cut repair costs.

Although calling the drill "good practice," Montclair Capt. Noel

Wearing breathing apparatus, two firemen douse flames roaring from an old, abandoned home in Upland. The flames and the smoke were real, but firefighters from the Ontario, Upland and Montclair departments went to the southwest corner of Benson Avenue and Arrow Highway Thursday for a training session. (Staff photo by Craig Swanson)

Treber said the small structures detracted somewhat from realism because firefighters at the time were controlling the flames from outside.

Referring to the breathing apparatus firemen were wearing, he said, "The old days of lobbing water from outside are long gone."

The fires did not last long. Piscione kept an eye on his watch during one blaze, calling out, "One minute and they got it knocked down."

Situations were simulated: a shed-like garage briefly became one home in a row of houses with shake-shingle roofs and its east flank threatening to spread the fire to other buildings.

And there was the unexpected, such as a wall full of bees, which apparently fell victim to the smoke, and the remains of a chimney without a fireplace presenting a potential hazard.

Small reminders pointed out the danger of firefighting. Two firemen suffered minor burns and one had a nail penetrate his boot, but no one was seriously hurt.

Kim Prout, Upland fire engineer, said the practice session will save the property owner, who has 72 hours to clear away remaining debris, money on demolition costs.

Youth groups ask panel to help fund night lights

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

The Upland City Council gave some hope Monday night to a youth sports group that night baseball might survive the latest threat posed by soaring electrical rates for lighting two playing fields.

Bob Spalding — president of Citizens for Youth Activities (CFYA) — said the youth sports organization believed the baseball leagues had found a way to meet their new financial responsibility for electrical costs.

However, he said CFYA members learned of "catastrophic events" last week creating a new "big black cloud" over continued night baseball at Upland Memorial Park and Hawkins Field.

A revised rate structure for "demand charges" effective this January has pushed the anticipated 1979 electrical bill for the Upland PONY and Colt leagues up from $3,650 to $10,000, Spalding said.

Demand charges are levied separate from power used and are based the maximum power needed at any one time during a month — in this case to light the fields.

Demand charges amount to about $400 per month for each playing field during months when the lights are used and half that amount during other months.

A variety of figures have been used to represent the increase in electrical bills for the fields. Randy Bond, area manager for Southern California Edison Co., said Monday night the charges were actually increasing 43 percent.

Larry Thornburg, Upland's recreation director, put the increase at less than Spalding's figures but more than Bond's.

Total electrical bills at the two fields were $5,000 to $6,000 last year and will increase to $9,000 to $10,000 this year, he said.

Until Upland has gone through a year of the new metering, no one can be sure, Thornburg said.

CFYA received a pledge from the Baldy View Chapter of the Building Industry Association (BIA) to help pay for the electrical bills at the two fields earlier this year. But that pledge was before the leagues learned of the higher rates.

Even with entry fees raised $5 per player for the two leagues and CFYA fund-raising activities, the baseball leagues will fall well short of the funds needed for lighting, Spalding said.

He requested the city approach Edison and the state Public Utilities Commission (PUC) about having the new demand charges removed.

In a similar situation in Pomona, he added, the council voted there to try to help a Little League, with the city manager instructed by the mayor to come up with the funds.

Seeking city financial assistance, Spalding said, "The CFYA is wondering, is the city of Upland worst off than Pomona as far as funding is concerned?"

The Upland council eliminated funding of electrical bills at city-owned playing fields last year as a way to save money under Proposition 13.

CFYA gathered some 1,200 signatures on petitions and drew some 100 persons to a council meeting last December, but failed to win a commitment from the council to restore city funds.

However, on Monday night, the council expressed sympathy for the leagues' new plight. In addition to Colt teams, other leagues at Memorial Park affected by the new rates are Palomino, Thorobred (both associated with Colt League) and American Legion.

Councilman Bill Bottin called for special council meeting 7 p.m. next Monday to take another look at budget priorities for the remaining three months of this fiscal year.

He and other council members also had some tough questions for Randy Bond, area manager of Southern California Edison.

Bond said the new demand charges won the Public Utilities Commission endorsement as one way to conserve fuel, in effect "penalizing" users with "high demand but low consumption (such as playing fields where lights are unused seven months out of the year)."

He acknowledged the hardship for youth leagues, but said, "There's not much we can do about it."

An application for a new rate for playing fields could be submitted to the PUC, Bond said. However, he added that exceptions would lead to more rates than currently exist, and "it seems like we have too many now — that's part of the problem."

Two teachers have been named recipients of honorary service awards by the PTA at Sycamore School, 1075 W. 13th St., Upland. They are Mrs. Shirley Porto, left, and Mrs. Louise Carter. Mrs. Porto, who has taught at Sycamore for 15 years, belongs to the Kappa Sorority and the American Association of University Women. She is active in her church, where she has taught catechism for 4 years. She worked through her church to sponsor a Vietnamese family. Mrs. Carter, a teacher at Sycamore for 12 years, is coordinator of the ninth grade Ticktocks, a group of 20 girls learning to give service to their community. She and her family have been a "shepherd" through their church to numerous elderly families in the community.

Student crossing guard plan draws leery reaction in Upland

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

Parents and school officials are so far leery of a pilot program using student crossing guards near an Upland elementary school.

Initial plans to use student crossing guards at Citrus Elementary School have been dropped for now after PTA members questioned giving fifth and sixth graders responsibility for the safety patrols and noted the loss of class time for the guards.

Upland Councilman Frank Hoover — chairman of the Upland Traffic Safety Advisory Committee — said last week he doubts any pilot program will start this school year.

However, he said the concept of using student crossing guards will get a better reception when police Capt. Gary Hart explains the program in detail at Upland schools.

Even if parents' concerns over safety are alleviated, the staggered schedules at Upland schools and the projected loss of class time for crossing guards would remain as a key stumbling block for the program.

Requests for crossing guards increased last fall after the Upland School District curtailed busing by 50 percent as a cost-saving measure under Proposition 13.

Upland now employs two paid adult crossing guards at San Antonio Avenue and Seventh Street and at San Antonio and 11th Street.

Police Chief Coy Estes said a crossing guard is paid about $2,500 for work 5½ hours a day, nine months a year.

He and other city officials cited the difficulty of finding persons to work for $2.30 an hour in a part-time job with a split shift.

At City Manager Lee Travers' direction, Estes is reviewing a state law effective last June that allows school districts to hire crossing guards and be reimbursed from traffic fines.

No figures were available yet on how much this reimbursement would be.

Hoover said the transfer of responsibility to the school district, with the city's cooperation, "would be great."

On the other hand, Upland Superintendent George Renworth said the law has not worked out and noted there is bill to repeal SB 2199. School crossings are really a traffic problem better handled through police departments, he added.

Peter Liu, Upland's traffic engineer, said three new intersections have met the city's standards for a crossing guard: Seventh Street and Mountain Avenue and San Antonio Avenue at 15th and 18th streets.

Nine other locations surveyed by the city failed to meet the guidelines, but other control methods are available in some cases.

Seventh and Mountain is the most pressing need because of commercial and nearby freeway traffic, and Hoover said the intersection could have a guard transferred to or hired for the location.

Liu, Estes, Trustee Dina Hunter and others praised the student crossing guard program San Diego Unified School District has used for some 40 years.

Liu reported student guards patrol intersections near about 100 schools in the San Diego area, and officials there say no serious accidents have occurred during the program.

The guards, trained and supervised by police, do not leave the curb, but hold out a sign on a long pole to stop traffic.

But San Diego apparently does not have Upland's problem of staggered school schedules.

Shelby Forrest, principal of Citrus School, said his school has three arrival times and four departure times. A student patrolling all of these crossing would be away from class 210 minutes, he said.

Even with split shifts, a student would be away from school close to two hours, he said. Forrest added that not all of the school's 60 sixth graders are qualified for the responsibility.

Renworth said other Upland elementaries have roughly the same schedules.

Peggy Owen — one of two PTA representatives on the traffic committee — said the Citrus PTA board was "very much against" the program when told its school might be the pilot school.

Missed class time and responsibility given to the student guards weighed heavily in parents' comments, she said, adding one board member noted, "Cars do not even stop for me."

Jean Gordon, the other PTA representative on the committee, said parents generally would rather have adults as the crossing guards.

Valencia School's PTA has expressed interest in the program.

Kiwanis plan breakfast

Abner Haldeman, left, former mayor of Upland, and Randy Bond discuss plans for the Kiwanis Clubs of Upland's fourth annual community prayer breakfast, scheduled for Thursday at the Brethren in Christ Church fellowship hall at 845 W. Arrow Highway, Upland. The meal will be served at 7 a.m. Dr.

Howard C. Estep, president of World Prophetic Ministry in Colton will speak on "The Explosive Middle East." Reservations can be made through Upland Kiwanis members and by writing the Upland Chamber of Commerce. (Staff photo)

Kathy Bolinger, left, and Mary Bush have received honorary service awards from the Vineyard Elementary School PTA. Mrs. Bolinger, a parent volunteer aide in the school, is president of the Vineyard PTA and a room mother. She has been a Cub Scout den mother and is also active as a volunteer in the Youth Bowling League at Thunderbird Lanes. Mrs. Bush is the Vineyard PTA second vice president and "newsette" chairman. She is the leader of Brownie Troop 1000 and is a Brownie coordinator. She was in charge of the Vineyard Christmas tree at Montclair Plaza last year. (Staff photos)

Young artists auditions open

Young artists are invited now to apply for auditions for the 28th annual contest to be held Sunday, April 29 at Watchorn Hall on the University of Redlands campus, according to Mrs. Kim Hoepfner, chairman of the event.

There are three categories in two divisions: piano, voice and instrumental; junior and senior divisions.

Eligibility requirements are: Junior instrumentalists must be 15 through 18 years of age; voice contestants, 15 through 21. Senior instrumentalists must be 19 through 26, while voice contenders may be 22 through 26.

Auditions are open to young musicians who live in San Bernardino and Riverside Counties, and the Pomona - Claremont area of Los Angeles County, or to students who attend schools or colleges in those areas.

For application blanks, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Mrs. Kim Hoepfner, Chairman of Young Artists Auditions, Redlands Community Music Association, P.O. Box 466, Redlands, 92373. Deadline for applications is March 30.

Exploring career options

Women invited to conference

San Bernardino County women will be able to join other women from throughout California interested in exploring career options at the sixth annual Women's Employment Options Conference at the Long Beach Convention Center all day Saturday, March 31.

Many of the 100 companies represented at the conference have offices located in San Bernardino County and representatives will be available to meet informally with women to discuss both present and future job openings.

In addition, 35 workshops will be offered throughout the day, featuring panels of women who have become successful in such fields as management, sales, communications, banking and finance, engineering and computer sciences. A number of workshops will be geared toward the career planning and job search process as well as issues regarding various working styles.

Among the more than 125 speakers are: Judith Black, director of computer systems, Western Union Space Communications; Fran Savitch, administrative coordinator, Los Angeles Mayor Thomas Bradley's office; Bernice Malamud, vice president, The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States; Joanne Ishimine, KABC-TV News field reporter; Sharon Mack, apprenticeship consultant, Division of Apprenticeship Standards; Sandra Burton, career education specialist, Career Planning Center, Inc.; and Gloria Allred, attorney. They will address topics as diverse as "Power - How To Get It - How To Use It," "Alternative Careers for Teachers," "Rewards in Creative Sales," and "The Truth About the Glamour Jobs."

Prior registration, sent to the Career Planning Center, Inc., 1623 S. La Cienega Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90035, is $5. Registration at the door will be $6. Women are encouraged to bring along multiple copies of their resumes, if available, or call 273-6633 to make reservations for the special resume-writing workshops held at the Career Planning Center on this Saturday or March 22.

CSF to conduct conference

The California Scholarship Foundation (CSF) and the California Junior Scholarship Federation are planning their Spring Regional Conference for March 31 at Cal Poly Pomona.

Alta Loma High School CSF members have helped plan this conference. Mike Castrovinci, Sandy Miramontez, Mike Patterson, Mark Peters, and Kelly Williams, have worked on conference plans. These ALHS students will also make all signs for the conference, make posters for publicity and prepare news releases.

Theme for the conference is "Learn from the Past, Plan for the Future, but Live for Today." The keynote speaker will be author-humorist Dr. Richard Armour. His presentation will be accompanied by seminars in the area of animal science, astronomy, business and marketing, child-parent relations, computer science, engineering, law enforcement, criminal justice and corrections, mathematics, the musical theater, paranormal science, philosophy, political science, arts and crafts, and foods and nutrition. Armour's topic will be "The Hook of Humor."

First National sets dividend at 12 cents

First National Bank and Trust Company, directors have approved a quarterly cash dividend of 12 cents per share. The cash dividend will be payable April 6 to stockholders of record as of March 20.

A. O. Arnold, president and chairman of the board, said, "The dividend is the same dividend paid the previous quarter which at that time represented a 14 percent increase over the last cash dividend paid in 1979."

Musical revue due at SBVC

Music is the only star in the San Bernardino Valley College Department of Theater Arts production of the musical revue "Starting Here, Starting Now" to be presented in the SBVC Auditorium the last weekend in March.

"There are no real stars. This is a company production," explains director J. Stuart Campbell, SBVC associate professor of theater arts.

Nine of the 14 Broadway show tunes which comprise the two-act musical revue are performed by the full 15-member company. "Starting Here, Starting Now" is a collection of songs written by lyricist Richard Maltby, Jr., and composer David Shire.

The Valley College production will include 8 p.m. shows on Friday, March 30 and Saturday, March 31 and a 2 p.m. matinee on Sunday, April 1. General admission tickets may be purchased at the door. Senior citizens may attend free.

Campbell is assisted by musical director and choreographer Jane Ann Pleas.

Man of ideas

Author gives tips at Chaffey College workshop

By KAREN ALTMAN
Staff Writer

A green carnation tucked into his lapel in honor of St. Patrick's Day, science fiction writer Ray Bradbury talked of anger and passion and murder.

"Get rid of your demons and nightmares," Bradbury told about 150 persons Saturday at a writer's workshop at Chaffey College.

"Explode, be passionate," he urged. "Scream and yell. Don't be afraid of your emotions. Get the murder in yourself on paper."

Bradbury, author of more than 400 short stories, essays, poems, novels and plays, was the keynote speaker at the college's writer's day, which featured seven workshops on different writing topics.

After the writer has captured his thoughts on paper, he can begin to criticize them, the 59-year-old author said.

"Anything self-conscious is automatically non-creative. The time for intellect is between love affairs, not in the midst of the act."

Bradbury said a writer must live his life in libraries and bookstores. "All the women in my life have been English teachers, librarians, or booksellers," he said. "I've spent every day of my life in a library, a bookstore or curled up with a book."

Read at least 2,000 essays in the next five years, Bradbury told the aspiring writers.

"One a night — that's 15 minutes," he said. "You'll cram in your head thousands of ideas, ideas that can come to birth in short stories later on."

A writer doesn't need to confine himself to reading only "excellent things," the prize-winning author pointed out.

"I want you to read junk," he said. "Compare the inept, mediocre things to the excellent things."

A writer should "go to every damn film in the history of film-making," Bradbury declared.

"Get around to the art galleries, to plays. Educate your eye to educate your writing."

Another way to upgrade oneself is to associate with people "who pull you up," he added.

"Find conversationalists and bright people who are superior to yourself. I talk to a priest here, a philosopher there, a writer somewhere else."

Ideas are everywhere, Bradbury said.

"We're in the midst of a revolution. The reason I'm in science fiction is because all the ideas which have changed us were once science fiction ideas."

Word association is one way to get ideas for stories, the Los Angeles resident said.

"Go to the typewriter every day. Throw up in the morning and clean up at noon. Don't wait for ideas, just pound at the typewriter."

In word association, the writer spews out assorted adjectives and nouns, Bradbury said.

"Look at them and write a story. Take 'attic.' You can create a time machine just by describing an attic."

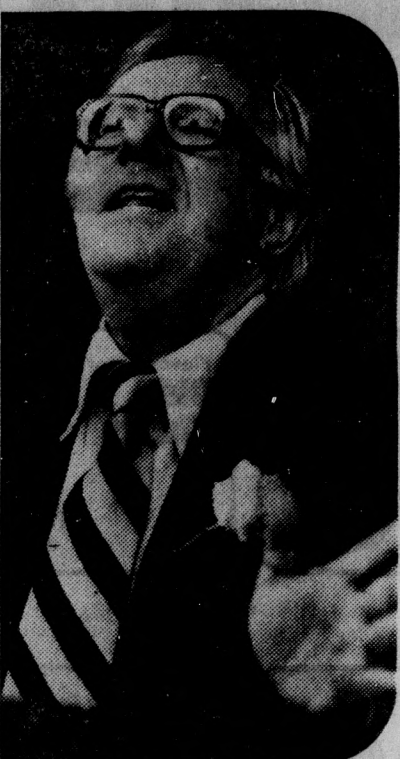

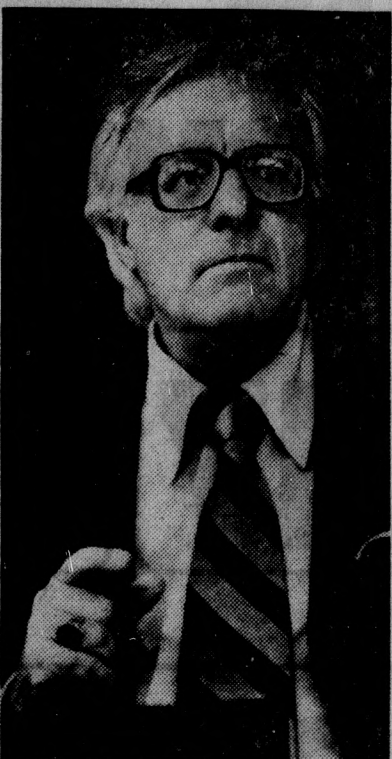

The "great beauty of writing," Bradbury said, is the "aside."

"Take time out to prove a small point, such as the whiteness of death, of fear," he instructed. "Someone will read that and say yes, I feel that way too."

Bradbury said he once wrote a 3,000-word "aside" on the joy of running in new white tennis shoes. That story later became part of "Dandelion Wine."

Bradbury said he is working on an opera about Moby Dick in outer space.

"This great white comet comes out of the universe every 40 years," he explained. "An astronaut who had his eyes put out by the comet is out to destroy it."

Alta Loma High to present its curriculum of job skills

The State Department of Education has asked Alta Loma High School to put on a demonstration program of its job skills curriculum.

The program is scheduled for March 28 and April 25.

The job skills program, under the chairmanship of Augusta Lindsey, has been developed into a four-year program, containing more than 50 categories. Much of the work is done through film-strip, cassette recordings and individual learning packages. The program enables students of all levels to participate, and material is available for those with a 2.5 reading level ability.

Vocational Education Administration funds have enabled the school to acquire equipment, replace equipment, secure materials and employ a teacher aide, Ruth Parker.

The program will include continental breakfast, description of the total program, classroom visitation and observation, lunch, opportunity to see and use the equipment involved, and an opportunity to get materials aimed at starting a program at individual schools.

'Y' organizes neighborhood swim program

Do you have a backyard pool that doesn't get much use? Have you ever worried the children in your neighborhood might have an accident in your pool?

Holger Paetau, YMCA director of health and physical education, said, "If you live in the communities of Ontario, Montclair, Upland, Chino or Rancho Cucamonga and are interested in donating your pool for this program contact the YMCA at 988-5847."

For donating your pool for the backyard swimming program the YMCA will teach your children at no charge. The YMCA supplies certified instructors and all equipment necessary to teach classes.

Assistant county assessor appointed

Gerald O. Stafford has been appointed assistant assessor for San Bernardino County. Assessor R. Gordon Young has announced.

Stafford began his career in 1962 as a draftsman trainee in the assessor's office. After learning the fundamentals of appraising — writing legal descriptions, searching title records, preparing special maps and reports — he was promoted to appraiser. He specialized in commercial, industrial and residential appraisals.

In May 1971, Stafford was promoted to supervising appraiser of commercial and industrial properties.

Stafford left San Bernardino County in 1972 to become chief appraiser in Yuba County. He returned in 1975 to be a principal appraiser in charge of rural and urban property.

West Valley Superior Court adjudicates criminal cases

Numerous cases involving felony charges were judged recently in West Valley Superior Court. Names, addresses, charges and dispositions are as reported by the district attorney's office.

Conviction charges may in some instances be affected by terms of a plea agreement between defendant and prosecutor. In cases where the sentence prescribed is a term in the county jail, the original felony charge reverts to a misdemeanor.

The cases and dispositions include:

— John Guzman Lozano, age and city of residence unknown. Charged with possession of a concealable firearm by a person who has been convicted of a felony. Pleaded guilty to that charge. Sentenced to two years in state prison by Judge Kenneth G. Ziebarth Jr.

— Jack Lee, Jr., 24, city of residence unknown. Charged with grand theft. Found guilty by jury of that charge. Sentenced to three years in state prison by Judge Richard Garner.

— James Milton Crawley, 44, Pomona. Charged with crimes against children. Pleaded no contest to that charge. Sentenced to two years in state prison by Judge Allen.

— Richard Arthur Bendele, 22, Rosemead. Charged with possession of a controlled substance and driving under the influence of narcotics. Pleaded guilty to possession of a controlled substance. Pronouncement of judgment withheld. Placed on three years' probation and ordered to serve 120 days in county jail by Judge Allen.

— Bernard Rene LaFond, 31, Pomona. Charged with burglary and grand theft. Pleaded guilty to both charges. Sentenced to two years in state prison for the grand theft charge by Judge Allen. A three year state prison term was stayed pending appeal.

— Harold Gene Bearden, 21, Baldwin Park. Charged with attempted murder and assault with intent to commit murder. Found guilty by jury of assault with a deadly weapon. Sentenced to five years in state prison by Judge Garner.

— Eldridge Gadison, 21, city of residence unknown. Charged with escape from state prison. Pleaded guilty to escape from jail, prison, road camp or industrial farm. Sentenced to three years in state prison by Judge Allen.

— Porfirio Hector Vasquez, 30, Ontario. Charged with manufacturing or offering weapons for sale. Found guilty of that charge. Pronouncement of judgment withheld. Placed on two years' probation and ordered to serve 16 days in county jail by Judge Allen.

McVittie named to post

Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th District, has been appointed to the California Council on Criminal Justice by Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy.

The criminal justice panel administers California's $40 million share of federal anti-crime funds.

McVittie will succeed former Assemblyman Ken Maddy on the California Council on Criminal Justice (CCCJ). McVittie already serves as chairman of the Assembly Committee on Criminal Justice.

"The council will be setting priorities for the federally-supported anti-crime programs in California. This will include basic prevention programs, involvement with existing community programs, offender projects and work to prevent juvenile delinquency."

Dairy industry setback

The future of the dairy industry south of Chino has suffered a setback in the form of a city council decision to set aside that land for industrial use.

Right now, the land between Eucalyptus and Merrill avenues is in a San Bernardino County agricultural preserve, and its owners have contracts with the state to that effect under the Williamson Act, which gives the operators special tax considerations.

But Dennis Chiniaveff, director of community planning, told the council Tuesday that a number of property owners were contemplating annexation to the city and wanted to get out of the preserve so they could use the land for industrial developments.

Chiniaveff said it was desirable for the city to give some indication that as portions of the preserve are annexed to the city, they would be rezoned industrial.

The council approved Chiniaveff's suggestion and served notice that when the land is annexed, it will be given an industrial zoning.

Agoraphobia

Crippling fear keeps many housebound

By RITA BUSBY
Staff Writer

Imagine fear so intense that the fear of death, of going crazy—of losing complete control—forces your system to react as if an inward earthquake is taking charge of your body.

Another woman likened the experience to the giant head of a lion, roaring ferociously, closing its head over her body.

Such experiences occur to victims of agoraphobia, estimated to affect approximately 1.25 million persons in the United States.

And those feelings can come over a person so afflicted, uninvited, while he or she is doing something as simple as buying groceries.

But once experienced, the feeling is so frightening that the victim will forever after avoid grocery shopping.

Agoraphobia takes its name from the Greek word for market and means fear of public places.

It has housebound some women for the greater parts of their lives, making them unable even to do commonplace things such as driving a car or walking a child to school.

Twenty percent of its victims are men. And today, when more and more men are able to admit hidden terrors, once relegated to the "weaker sex," they are "coming out of closets" with their phobias.

But agoraphobia remains much a woman's sickness — diagnosable and treatable—according to Dr. Erwin Theobald, a Pasadena psychologist, specializing in agoraphobia.

Assisted by Joyce Boyd of Claremont, Dr. Theobald conducts training classes throughout Southern California in overcoming agoraphobia.

Joyce Boyd

One such class was recently completed in Claremont.

Three of the women, two from Ontario and one from Cucamonga, attending the class, talked about their illnesses.

One, an attractive 29-year-old woman hadn't left her home for three years prior to the class—not even shopping or for a drive.

Her husband clipped an article from a newspaper describing agoraphobia and said, "This might be what you have."

The woman has been improving ever since.

The three women said once their illness had a name, once they knew they weren't crazy, once they got together with other people suffering the same way, an entire new world opened for them.

Theobald described the

"correction" for agoraphobia as a "laborious step-by-step learning process using a cool, calm and courageous approach."

But he said it is definitely correctable, especially today when illness such as agoraphobia bring no "shame" to anyone.

Asked why agoraphobia has stayed out of the news for so long, Theobald attributed its recent notoriety to the women's liberation movement.

"Previously a woman could get away with staying at home all the time. And too, it just wasn't talked about," he said.

He described people so afflicted as usually "over-sensitive people" who develop or have partially inherited a tendency to develop excessive fear patterns.

He also said women involved tend to be middle class and "not so much career women."

Their condition becomes a "fear of fear," stemming from the experience of being involved in commonplace phobias that uncontrollably lead them to assume they might go crazy or die because of the experience.

Some agoraphobics are afraid to take a bath or even to go to the bathroom unaccompanied.

Victims become "sensitized" and feel symptoms of fear more strongly than an ordinary person, Theobald said.

"All you need is one attack someplace and you never go there again," one of the women from the Claremont class said.

Sufferers experience rapid heart beats, dryness of the throat, chest pains, hyperventilation, shakiness, nausea, a "floating feeling," extreme coldness and a tightening of the throat.

"The more scared I got, the worse it got," a woman said.

That same woman said she used to eat in the car when the rest of the family went to a restaurant.

"I had to be able to get out of there fast if I had to," she said.

All three women said when they first began having "attacks," they were given Valium (a depressant) and more or less "patted on the head" by traditional doctors.

They also said that during their years of sickness, family and friends (except for their husbands) were unsympathetic.

One woman said her mother-in-law once remarked, "You ought to be thankful my son is putting up with this."

"You cry and cry and think of strait jackets," a woman said.

"You get to the point where you want to have diabetes or something so you won't think you are mentally ill," one said.

But all feel they are well on the road to recovery and through the classes have developed friendships that are shared in outings to supermarkets, restaurants and dances—unthinkable places to go only weeks ago.

Boyd, Theobald's assistant and a former agoraphobic, will, under the direction of the doctor, begin new classes in her Claremont home shortly.

Further information may be obtained by calling 624-7423.

Red Cross sabbath is being observed

Bishop Philip F. Straling of the Diocese of San Bernardino presented the invocation that officially launched the 1979 Red Cross centennial roll call Membership Drive on Thursday.

San Bernardino County religious leaders have been requested to designate this weekend as Red Cross Sabbath following the campaign breakfast for Red Cross membership drive workers at the San Bernardino Hilton Inn.

In a letter to religious leaders, Red Cross chapter chairman Nathan A. Simon wrote: "The goals of this great century - old humanitarian organization are in close harmony with members of the many congregations throughout this county-wide Red Cross Chapter. In many instances this past year we have worked together to meet the growing needs of our less fortunate brothers and sisters."

The San Bernardino County Chapter, American Red Cross, has set a goal of 8,000 new members to supplement the allocations it receives from six United Ways.

When Pain Becomes Habitual It's Time For You To Act

By Dr. Wes Helzer, D.C.

It is a common occurrence in Chiropractic offices to have some new patient say, "Doctor, my shoulders and arm have been paining me for seven or eight months. Our family physician has taken X-rays and there is no arthritis or bursitis. He feels it is neuritis. I cannot put my arm behind my back. I cannot raise it to comb my hair. I can only do a limited part of my work and that with great discomfort. I am constantly taking sedatives. I have not had a night of natural sleep since it started to pain me. I have had shots. I have had heat and light treatments. I have used different liniments. But nothing seems to make any headway against the constant suffering."

tween the ribs, nerves that extend up over the back of the scalp or even into the legs.

Is this delay because they do not remember having injured the spinal column?

If so, it cannot be emphasized too much that spinal distortions do not always come from a single, traceable injury such as a fall, lifting strain or collision. Oftentimes, when a Doctor of Chiropractic shows a patient an X-ray of the patient's spinal column and points out the spinal deviations which the X-ray reveals, the patient will ask, "How could that happen? I don't remember ever having strained my back."

Many of the reasons could be summed up in one word, "HABIT." For the person who does considerable driving each day it might be the habit of resting the arm on the car door.

For the person who works in the factory it could be the position in which he works at his machine day after day.

The nerves in which neuritis most frequently occurs are so closely related to the spinal column and the probabilities for disturbances of the spinal column to occur are so great that the thought of neuritis should immediately bring thoughts of the spinal column.

County seeks involvement by residents

Residents of most cities and unincorporated communities in the West End are being sought for membership on committees that give advice on how to spend federal grants for home repairs and neighborhood improvements.

The county board of supervisors will appoint the new committees in May. They will help prepare applications for the federal grants to be spent in the year starting in mid-1980.

The grants are made by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development under its community development program. San Bernardino County and the cities which apply jointly with the county expect to receive almost $8.7 million in the coming year.

The money is intended to upgrade neighborhoods where low- and moderate-income persons live. The money is spent for home repairs and such public improvements as streets, sidewalks, street lights, sewer and water lines, parks and neighborhood centers.

Advisory committees normally have five to nine members, depending upon the size of the "target area" for federal aid. They are intended to represent the community's makeup in terms of economic levels, ethnic and cultural backgrounds, and age.

They work with city staffs and the county's community development program to decide what their communities need in the way of housing and public improvements.

Then they recommend priorities for spending the federal grants and make sure the money goes toward the projects that are approved.

Where so-called target areas for neighborhood improvements fall within cities, the advisory committees submit their recommendations to city councils. If they are in unincorporated areas, the recommendations go to the board of supervisors.

Five local cities — Upland, Rancho Cucamonga, Chino,

Montclair and Fontana — join with the county in applying for the federal grants. Ontario deals directly with the federal government.

The board of supervisors has direct responsibility for appointing advisory committees in four unincorporated communities in the West End.

They are Los Serranos, Pomona Home Acres (between Montclair and Chino), the area north of Fontana and the areas south and west of Fontana.

Applicants for the advisory committees are expected to be receptive to training, willing to attend at least one meeting a month, understand the needs of their communities, listen to a variety of opinions and make decisions, and evaluate proposals.

Further information on committee memberships may be obtained by writing to the county Office of Community Development, in care of Suzanne Pelayo, 1111 E. Mill St., San Bernardino 92415. The deadline is March 31.

Chance to hike trails offered

The chance to hike trails that Kit Carson and the Indians first knew is coming up for young men and women between 14 and 21 at the Philmont Scout Ranch and Explorer Base in Cimarron, N. M.

Old Baldy Council, Boy Scouts of America, is planning a trek from Aug. 4 to 19, and interested persons are asked to sign up as soon as possible.

Those interested do not have to be Boy or Girl Scouts. Martin Walsh, a scoutmaster, and his wife, Pat Walsh, are organizing the backpacking adventure.

Further information is available by calling Paul Warner at 626-3551 at the Old Baldy Council center, 120 W. San Jose St., Claremont, or Walsh at 983-0244.

Bill Long, 16, of Ontario and Caroline Poynter, 12, of Claremont recently returned from Bakersfield competition as the 1979 Gold Skate Classic Pairs champions. They were the youngest team in the competition and will appear on TV's "Wide World of Sports." Coached by Matt and Verda Asman, they are members of the Foothill Skating Club of Montclair.

Sewage treatment district breakup under consideration

By PETER WONG
Staff Writer

Mayors and other elected officials agreed Thursday night to look at the possibility of a partial breakup of the 7-year-old regional sewage treatment program.

They did so after it became clear they were still deadlocked on how West End governments should help the Chino Basin Municipal Water District pay for expansion of sewage treatment plants.

The seven governments are divided on a suggested charge of $925 for each new home connected to a municipal sewer system.

A partial breakup of the regional program could result in communities paying different amounts for expansion of the sewage treatment plant that serves them. It would do away with uniform payments into a single regional construction account.

The idea was proposed by Frank Lesinsky, a director of the Cucamonga County Water District, to the mayors' committee which advises the Chino Basin Municipal Water District on policy matters.

Of the present regional arrangement, "it appears it's not doing too well," Lesinsky told the committee at Montclair City Hall.

"It seems like the logical thing to consider," Upland Mayor George M. Gibson said of the breakup proposal.

The study will be conducted by the district's technical committee, which consists of city engineers and public works directors, and one representative from each of the seven local governments.

The committee's endorsement of the study was a turnabout from last month, when Chino Councilman Larry Walker suggested the idea but failed to muster any support for it.

The committee's action could be the first step in the breakup of the regional sewage treatment program the district has managed since local governments signed contracts in 1972.

More likely, however, it won't end up like that, although officials in several cities have expressed dissatisfaction with the district's management.

Instead of a single regional construction account, separate accounts would be maintained for construction of particular regional plants.

Under that plan, only those communities served by a particular plant would pay for expansion of its sewage treatment capacity.

The shortage of sewage treatment capacity at regional plants in Ontario and Chino has been the key factor in limiting home construction and population growth for more than two years.

Operations of those plants may or may not be left in the district's hands.

The partial breakup was suggested after Walker and Supervisor Robert O. Townsend said their governments were ready to agree to a connection charge of $925, the money to pay for expansion of the Chino plant.

The Chino plant serves Chino and the Chino Hills, an unincorporated area governed by the board of supervisors.

But the local governments served by the larger Ontario plant cannot agree on a connection charge or any other means of paying for plant expansion.

Chaffey College professor views foreign learning

"We want to get rid of class prejudice without getting rid of class education," is the way Professor Gerald E. Martin of Chaffey College summarized his findings during his recent sabbatical leave in England, France, Germany and Austria.

He studied the educational systems in those countries to evaluate the writing abilities of 17- and 18-year old students. He found that the European practice of combining students ages 11 to 18 in one secondary school (called a lycee in France, a gymnasium in Germany) means that remedial work, where needed, is given early (ages 11 and 12). Those who do not measure up by age 14 are dropped from university preparation and routed to a vocational training, either in a separate school, or in the case of British "comprehensive schools" or German "gesamtschulen" a vocational "track."

"The European schools are struggling to overcome class distinctions," Martin said, and are moving toward the comprehensive schools. "They are striving to retain traditional values at the same time they are opening paths to those who previously were not admitted." At Repton, an old-line private prep school in England, Martin met with a former exchange teacher at Pomona High School, Richard Grew. In London, Martin also met a former exchange teacher from Claremont High School, Mr. Boden, who let him sit in on a session he was conducting with a social worker concerning a student's truancy. "Perhaps the best experience was attending a class session at the Hermann-Billing-Schule in Celle, Germany, arranged by Dr. Adolf Klinkers who was an exchange teacher at Chaffey High School in 1955. The History of Drama class was conducted at a high level and the student papers I examined were of very good quality. However, a teacher in Passau admitted that standards have seriously deteriorated in some German schools; he ascribed this to political pressures," Martin explained.

The Chaffey College professor did not acquire all his information about the state of education by visiting schools, however. He said he learned more about the schools by talking almost every day to people on trains.

Parent Education Class has openings

The Parent Education Class, sponsored by the Claremont Adult Education, has several openings.

On Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, parents and their children between 2 1/2 and 5 years old meet in a nursery school situation. Speakers, field trips and parties are included in the program.

Parents of these youngsters may leave them alone in the class one morning a week. On Tuesdays and Thursdays, parents and their children from 1 to 2 1/2 years meet. Registration may be made at the Old Baldy Council, Boy Scouts of America Center, 120 W. San Jose St., Claremont, or call 624-6402 during the day or 985-7571 evenings. A fee is charged for the program.

Faith Lutheran

"Fifteen Years of Lifting" will be the service theme for the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday at Faith Lutheran Church of San Dimas, 505 E. Bonita Ave., which will be celebrating the church's 15th anniversary. The Rev. Ray F. Kibler will serve the sacrament of communion. Sunday school will convene at 11:15 a.m. for children and adults and at 5 p.m. an anniversary "carry-in" dinner will be held.

Confirmation instruction will be held 6 p.m. Monday and "Deep Purple" will be the theme for the Lenten service 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. A coffee-fellowship will follow the service.

Women's Aglow Fellowship

The Glendora Women's Aglow Fellowship luncheon will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday at Michael's Restaurant, 601 E. Alosta Ave., Glendora. Mary Ann Flynn of Westminster will be the guest speaker for the luncheon. She and her husband Chuck conduct courses around the nation on the gifts of the holy spirit. Mrs. Flynn also instructs a course entitled the "Profile of a Christian Family."

For information and reservations call Charlotte Coffin at (213) 969-1461. Child care will be provided.

Valley Community

Sunday school students at Valley Community Drive-in Church will be getting special entertainment through a "Christian Magic Show" at the 9:30 a.m. session Sunday.

Jerry Gunderson will present 30 minutes of magic acts that will give interesting and stimulating facts about Bible truths. All ages are invited.

Added to the 8:30 and 10:45 a.m. services for both drive-in and sanctuary will be a 6 p.m. "prayer for your needs" service in the church lounge.

Valley Community Drive-in Church is located at Lone Hill and Covina boulevards in San Dimas.

Valley Christian Center

Dr. Robert Frost will speak 7:30 p.m. Friday at Valley Christian Center, 1404 W. Gladstone, San Dimas. He is a Ph.D. biologist and full-time preacher in the charismatic ministry. Frost has authored several books on the holy spirit and will speak on that subject Friday. Child care will be provided and all persons are welcome.

Temple Shalom

Temple Shalom of Ontario has services, held by Rabbi Eli Lagnado, Fridays at 8 p.m. and Saturdays at 9 a.m., and a discussion group Sundays at 10:15 a.m.

Board to meet

The board of directors of the San Gabriel Valley Regional Center for the Developmentally Disabled will meet 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 28 in the center's conference room. The public is invited to attend the meeting.

Red Cross aids vets

In February Pomona Valley residents and their families received more than $7,000 in veterans benefits through the direct efforts of the Pomona Chapter of the American Red Cross, according to chapter director William Braden.

"These people came to our office for help in dealing with the Veteran's Administration," he said.

"We interviewed them as part of our service to military families program. We completed their paperwork and referred them to the Red Cross representatives in Los Angeles Veterans Administration facility," said Braden.

The Pomona Chapter, located at 675 N. Park Ave., Pomona, serves the citizens of Diamond Bar, La Verne, Pomona, San Dimas, and Walnut. Anyone wishing help or information concerning the veterans program may call (714) 622-1348.

Talent contest

Competition is open to all persons aged 3 through adult for the Southern California Area Preliminary Liberty Talent Contest scheduled April 1 at Griswold's Hotel in Claremont.

Categories include singing, dancing, instrumental, and variety acts and are divided into age and specialty divisions. Winners in each category will be eligible to perform in December for the grand finals.

Gary David and his twin daughters, Pam, left, and Kim, right, both 6, relax while looking at the ducks in the pond at Griswold's GOSH center. The three will be among those modeling on Saturday at the Spring Fashion Show to be staged at GOSH Pavilion by the Pomona Valley Mothers of Twins Club. "Double Delight" is the theme of this year's event, which begins at 11 a.m. with a social hour. Children's, women's and men's fashions will be featured. (Staff photo by Craig Swanson)

'Double Delight' coming Saturday

"Double Delight" is the theme for this year's Pomona Valley Mothers of Twins Club Spring Fashion Show to be held Saturday at Griswold's Pavilion in Claremont.

The event begins at 11 a.m. with a social hour, followed by lunch at noon and the fashion parade at 1 p.m. Styles will be shown from the Children's Shop in Claremont, Mona's Dress Shop in Claremont and Silverwood's, Montclair Plaza.

The club is a philanthropic and social organization dedicated to children's charities. The chapter raises money for places such as Casa Colina Hospital of Rehabilitative Medicine in Pomona, the Sick Baby Fund at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and Lincoln Development Center in Ontario.

First graders thrilled with visit to 'Land of Oz'

By MARGE GROSS
Staff Writer

The Yellow Brick Road stretched its way into Bridges Auditorium, Claremont, on a recent weekend and brought Dorothy and all her friends in "The Wiz."

"The Wiz" is a musical taken from the children's book, "The Wizard of Oz," and features an all-black cast.

It's a jumpin', jivin' adaptation and much more fun than the classic movie starring Judy Garland.

In Claremont for three performances, the traveling company captivated capacity audiences. Age had nothing to do with the enjoyment of the musical — it brought laughs and responses of amusement from young and old.

Probably the most excited group of children to come in contact with "The Wiz" were the 31 first graders of Peggy Howard's class at Bon View Elementary School, Ontario.

The children are rehearsing for their own version of "The Wiz" to be given before school closes for the summer. Even though it wasn't possible for the youngsters to see the show on stage, Priscilla Johnson, publicist for the Center for the Performing Arts (the booking group), arranged for a personal visit with Dorothy, Lion, Tinman, Scarecrow and Toto, the dog.

The 31 excited youngsters were driven by Miss Howard and parents to the Rodeway Inn, Claremont, where they talked with, were hugged by and laughed at their favorite "stars."

Lillias D. White (Dorothy) didn't look like any little kid, but the fact that she's a handsome young woman who wears glasses didn't change her image for them. They loved her.

Garry Q. Lewis (Scarecrow), Bobby Hill (Lion) and Jai Oscar St. John (Tinman) charmed the youngsters right into their arms. The little ones bubbled over with questions and the three actors responded with great warmth — some even responding in Spanish, much to the delight of several students.

It was a day the 31 first graders will never forget — and the four actors probably will remember those little boys and girls as one of their most appreciative audiences.

Had the kids been able to see Dorothy, Scarecrow, Tinman and Lion on stage, they would have seen the quartet in an exceptionally good production of "The Wiz."

The huge company of actors, singers and dancers, stage hands and musicians have been traveling since last June staging the show in cities and hamlets across the United States.

With this in mind, it is a marvel that the scenery looks crisp, costumes unwrinkled and everyone appeared to be bubbling with energy.

"The Wiz" is the story of Dorothy who is blown from her Kansas home into a strange land. She is told by the Munchkins to see the Wizard of Oz as he is the only one who can help her get home.

Dorothy runs into the Tinman who seeks a heart, Scarecrow who wants a brain and the lovable Lion who needs courage. Off they go down the Yellow Brick Road, which turns out to be four tall, slim men in yellow brick outfits. All sorts of things happen before and when the foursome reaches Oz. They face the Wizard and everything turns out great after Dorothy learns to believe in what she wants most.

The show is packed with some marvelous wit — a great deal of it pretty sophisticated and well over youngsters' heads. But the adults get many a chuckle from it.

"The Wiz" is a show that constantly moves — it's action-packed, exotic and fully a product of the 1970s.

In comparing impressions from seeing the show the first time four or more years ago, and in 1979, it was interesting to note that some lines which seemed a bit risqué then, were merely amusing now.

The best part of having the "The Wiz" come to Claremont was not seeing the show, but seeing the delight in those first graders' eyes and their big smiles when they were with Dorothy, Tinman, Scarecrow and Lion. Their performance topped anything that happened on the stage of Big Bridges.

The Fine Arts Department of Webb School is to present a new musical, "Tom/PRINCE" based on Mark Twain's "The Prince and the Pauper." The book, music and lyrics were written by Christopher Trussell, Chairman of Webb's Fine Arts Department who decided to write the musical when the school enrolled identical twins, Chris and Greg Troxell.

Chris plays the part of Edward, the Prince of Wales, with Greg as Tom Canty, the pauper boy.

dashing hero. Claude Sauviat plays Hugh Hendon with Lisa Metzler as Edith his wife. Carol Stickles plays the Lady Jane Grey, Edward's cousin, and Elizabeth his sister is played by Nina Clark. The Earl of Hertford, and Lord St. John are played by Chris Bradford and Andy Atkinson. Artson Hardison, Gary Harber, Kevin Robinson, and Bobby Tsai play Ruffler and the members of his gang whom the Prince encounters in one of his numerous adventures.

The musical takes place tonight at 8 in the school's auditorium and Saturday at 8 p.m. Ticket information may be obtained by calling Webb School 626-3587.

Jewish Arts Festival scheduled

Students of B'nai B'rith Hillel at The Claremont Colleges will present a five-event Jewish Arts Festival March 29-April 7.

A lecture, an arts day, two movies and a concert are planned.

The festival will begin Thursday night, March 29, with a lecture by Yosef Hayim Yerushalmi, "Between Cross and Crescent: the Culture of Sephardic Jewry." It will be in the Humanities Auditorium at Scripps College at 8.

Arts Day will be celebrated April 1 in honor of Israeli Independence Day. It will run from 1 to 5 p.m. in McKenna Auditorium at Claremont Men's College.

The two movies will be in Seaver Auditorium at Pomona College. "Teva and His Daughters" will screen at 7 p.m. April 3. "Fiddler on the Roof," the musical version of that film, will show at 7 p.m.

April 4.

The final event of the series will be a concert of Sephardic music of the Renaissance by Canto Antiguo, a local music group that uses authentic Renaissance instruments and arrangements. The concert will be at 8 p.m. April 7 at Bauer Lecture Hall.

About 55 million will get cancer

A report by the American Cancer Institute states that over 55 million Americans now living will eventually have cancer. This would mean that one person in four would be stricken at the present rate.

The story follows the two boys switching places and the various adventures they follow.

The large cast includes Ed Sharp, Nancy Bromfield, Kim Kramer, Vicky Baldwin as John Canty, Emma Canty, Nan and Bet respectively, with Bob Gilmer as Miles Hendon the Thinking about taking a class?

Wine appreciation

For the lover of fine wine and food, The Office of Continuing Education at Cal Poly Pomona announces three courses on the subjects for the spring 1979 quarter.

"Wine and the Consumer II" studies the economics, history, and geography of wine and wine growing; the appreciation of wine; wine nomenclature; and the service of wine. This course is a follow - up to a similar course in California wines, and will concentrate this time on mid and southern European wines. The class begins March 29 through June 4 on Thursdays, 7-10 p.m., at Cal Poly, Building 9, Room 133 and is taught by Dr. Ralph Hutchinson, Cal Poly faculty. The fee is $55, non - credit, or with an additional $33 for 3 units.

Dr. Hutchinson also offers an all - day seminar, "Gourmet Wines, Cheeses, and Coffees," Saturday, 9:30-4:30, on March 31 at the Kellogg Center for Continuing Education. Participants are introduced to the techniques of wine, cheese and coffee evaluation. The fee of $48 (Non - credit) includes a gourmet lunch, refreshment breaks, seminar materials, and parking for the day.

"Enjoying Fine Food and Wine" offers an opportunity to learn more about the gracious art of enjoying fine food and wine. Five in - class sessions, Tuesdays April 10-June 12, 7-9:30 p.m., will focus on discussions of food with wine and cheese to be tasted for evaluation ($7.50 lab fee). Three dinners at outstanding restaurants will provide field experience for the course at an additional pre - paid fee of $20 for each of the three dinners. The class will meet at the Kellogg Center for Continuing Education. Dr. Joseph Koppel of Cal Poly's Dept. of Hotel and Restaurant Management is the instructor. The fee is $50 non - credit, or with an additional $22 for 2 units of university credit. For further information, call (714) 598-4391.

Science offerings

For those whose interests may be inclined toward science, the Office of Continuing Education at Cal Poly University Pomona is offering three courses this spring in that area.

To commemorate the 100th anniversary of his birth, Albert Einstein is the subject of the course, "Einstein: His Life and Thought." Team - taught by a physicist and a cultural historian, it presents an historical biography of Einstein with emphasis on the exposition of his ideas with the physical principles presented with a minimum of mathematical complexity.

Einstein's contributions to society in the fields of philosophy, literature and the arts, psychology, and world affairs will also be examined. The course is taught by Dr. James Kerwin of Cal Poly and Dr. Robert Davis of Chaffey College and will be held on Tuesdays, March 27-May 29, 6-9 p.m. at the Cal Poly campus, Building 8, Room 241. The course is $35, non - credit, or with an additional $33 for 3 units of university credit.

"Health Science Statistics," taught by Dr. L.M. Knill of the Cal Poly Dept. of Biological Sciences, will appeal to those with an interest in the medical sciences. Held on Tuesdays, 6-9 p.m., March 27-May 29, the course objectives are to understand the common statistical procedures employed in the health sciences and interpretation of the results of statistical data gathering. Knowledge of algebra is a pre - requisite. The course is available for 3 units of credit for $75. Class meets at Cal Poly, Building 8, Room 246.

"Introduction to Ocean Engineering" explores the theory and use of basic oceanographic instruments and equipment available on the research vessel NAUTILUS. The course covers basic ocean engineering techniques as applied to offshore drilling and exploration, coastal engineering, ocean mining, and ocean energy sources. It includes one half - day cruise on the RV NAUTILUS, and is open to high school science teachers and college students. Basic electrical knowledge is helpful. Class meets Thursdays, 7-9 p.m., March 29-May 31 at Cal Poly, Building 9, Room 425. The instructor is Dr. J.C. McMillan of Cal Poly's Dept. of Electrical Engineering.

Psychology of Supervision

The management department of Chaffey Community College announces a course entitled Psychology of Supervision to be presented in the spring quarter in 1979.

The class will be offered in two sections: Mondays from 6:30 to 10:20 p.m. and Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to noon.

This course is designed to assist the supervisor or manager in understanding causation in behavior, his or her own as well as that of fellow employees. Emphasis is on individual dynamics, perception, frustration, psychological conflicts, evaluation, influence, and authority relationships.

Registration is scheduled for March 26, 27 and 28 at Chaffey.

For more information, contact Judy Uebelhart or Chari Wallace, 987-1737, extension 418 or 417.

Convalescent home training

Chaffey Community College is again offering 36-hour non-credit training programs for those working in or who would like to work in convalescent hospitals or retirement homes.

The two classes currently being offered are activity director, which will be held on alternate Saturdays starting March 10, and social designee, which will be held on alternate Saturdays starting March 17.

Both classes will be held at the Chaffey College Center on the Navy Base at 4th and Hamner in Norco and will run for six Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Classes are tuition free but a text will be required for the social designee class at a cost of $11.

Registration will be at the first class. For more information call Chaffey College, 987-1737, 822-4484 or 735-0242, extension 239.

Women in management

"Women in management," a basic course designed to awaken women's belief in their own potential as supervisors and managers, both at home and in the office, is being offered to the public in the spring quarter by Chaffey Community College on Wednesday evenings from 6:30 to 10:20 p.m.

This class focuses on career opportunities, historical and current roles of women in management, stereotyping, role of a supervisor or manager, effective listening, interpersonal relations, evaluating and resetting job and life strategy. Men find this course as useful as women.

Registration for this and all management classes is scheduled for March 26, 27 and 28 at the Chaffey campus.

Inspection testing

The management department of Chaffey College is offering a course in Inspection and Testing for the spring quarter, beginning in April.

This course will be held on Wednesday evenings from 6:00 to 10:20 at the Ontario-Montclair Center.

This is a comprehensive study of mechanical and electrical inspection and teaching concepts and methods, inspection and testing requirements, records, mechanical and electrical measuring equipment and techniques. The course also includes understanding engineering drawings, specifications and process standards.

Registration is scheduled for March 26, 17 and 28 at Chaffey and the first night of class.

For more information, contact Judy Uebelhart at 987-1737, extension 418.

Bi-lingual parent child interaction

Aztlán Family Counseling Center is offering three parent effectiveness classes with monies received from Community Services Department of San Bernardino.

This Aztlán program is designed to help parents relate more effectively to their children. It is a training course for people who want to become more effective parents.

The class will be offered at 3 locations.

Monday's class will be held in Chino at the Neighborhood Services Center, 13271 Central Ave., 9 to 11 a.m.

Monday's and Thursday's in Ontario at Aztlán After-care Center, 718 E. Maitland.

Wednesday's it will be held in Cucamonga 1 to 3 p.m. at the Contact Station, 101 Perron Blvd.

Child care services will be provided. Classes are now in progress.

Baby Exercise

Baby fitness is being offered at the West End YMCA. The exercise class for infants 3-12 months old is the Kermit the Frog class, which meets Tuesday and Thursday at 9 a.m. starting this week and running for seven weeks. The fitness sessions include the mother who learns how to exercise the baby correctly.

Instructor Gail Wenz says, "A new baby has the basic essentials, but it takes movement to develop strength, flexibility, endurance and coordination. It takes use to develop a strong heart and action to fill the lungs fully."

Ms. Wenz believes that what we build for the baby now, at the beginning of life, will be the foundation for all things to come. A strong body means more active play and better sleep. A coordinated body is a safety insurance and improved self-esteem derived from things done well.

Ms. Wenz says, "Even a baby needs the support of a good body so that it may do the things of which it is capable without fatigue. Health cannot be bought or given as a gift...it must be worked and strived for, so it is all up to the mother."

The Kermit the Frog class is held two mornings a week, Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 to 9:30 a.m.

For registration information, contact the West End YMCA, 215 West C Street, Ontario at 986-5847.

On nursing techniques

Stroke rehabilitation course offered

Chaffey College will offer a continuing education course designed for people who care for stroke patients. Entitled "Stroke, Rehabilitation Nursing Techniques," the one-night course will run from 6 to 9 p.m. on Thursday.

At the completion of the program the student will be able to define the causes of stroke, be able to recognize the symptoms of a stroke patient and understand the use of a diagnostic test used by physicians to evaluate the stroke patient. Catherine M. Curry, a registered occupational therapist, is the instructor.

This course provides contact hours on continuing education for RN's and LVN's and is approved by the Board of Registered Nursing.

Other continuing education classes in the medical field to be offered at Chaffey College include "System Disorders and Pharmacology Review," a 4 unit credit class Tuesdays, 5 to 9 p.m. from April 3 through June 19; "Health Hazards Often Encountered In Industry," 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 10, for three contact hour credits; "The Practical Approach to Office Radiography" scheduled for 1 to 4 p.m., Saturday, May 19 for three contact hours; and "Emergency Nursing Patient Assessment" which is a graded class schedule for June 6 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

For more information about registration for any of these classes, contact the Community Services Office 987-1737, 822-4484 or 735-0242 ext. 275 or 276.

Photographers throughout the world will again have an opportunity to showcase their best efforts at the 23rd annual Los Angeles County Fair's International Exhibition of Photography Sept. 14 through 30.

Black and white or color prints, nature and pictorial slides and stereo slides will be judged, according to show superintendents Winifred and Roy Brown.

For prints, entries close Aug. 15; slides Aug. 22 and stereo slides, Aug. 29.

Prints will be judged Aug. 18, both slide divisions on Aug. 25 and 26, and stereo slides on Sept. 1.

Judges in last year's competition made their selections from 1383 nature slides, 2354 color slides, 428 stereo, 758 black and white prints and 368 color prints. Those receiving awards are exhibited during the run of the Fair.

Entry blanks giving full details may be obtained by writing Photography Dept., Los Angeles County Fair, P.O. Box 2250, Pomona, CA 91766.

YWCA lauded at kickoff breakfast

The YWCA is one of the most important and valuable organizations in a city and the world, Myrlie Evers of Claremont, said during the kickoff breakfast for the membership drive of the YWCA of Greater Pomona Valley. Mrs. Evers is honorary chairperson of the 1979 membership drive. She spoke to community leaders during the event held in the Montclair Civic Center.

"There is something for everyone in the organization," Mrs. Evers said. "It's an American institution which has helped young women and men (YMCA) to find direction in their lives."

The guest speaker was introduced by Valoe V. Brink, YWCA board president. Also taking part in the program were Andrea Delunas, who directed five youngsters in the Latch Key group in three songs, and Betty Sandford, campaign consultant. Audrey Brown, program director for the YWCA, said the 1979 theme will be "Young Women of All Ages," and she outlined the offerings of the YWCA which covers the Pomona Valley area and the West End.

Area women began to organize a YWCA in 1931, but it wasn't until 1937 that the La Verne YWCA Council became an official member of the San Gabriel Valley District Association.

By 1940, participation expanded geographically and racially with two black San Dimas women elected to the board and the development of a Spanish-speaking club for young adults.

The YW took positions related to children and developed a young mothers' club and a toy loan project. All this was done, according to a Y spokesman, on a budget increase of only $55 in 14 years.

By 1957, the board was ready to withdraw from the Valley Council and to act independently with a part-time director.

Over the last 20 years, the YWCA has sponsored recreation groups and classes and developed programs to meet specific needs in the expanding community. Incorporation came in the 1960s, and the 1970s saw the move of the YWCA to the current 1787 N. Garey Ave., Pomona, location, and the name changed from Greater Bonita YWCA to the YWCA of the Greater Pomona Valley.

There are now 600 girls and women on the membership rolls.

Members of the membership campaign committee are Barbara Baumunk, Ruth Fasnacht, Rosanne Bader, Kathleen Kinley, Wynne Furth, Rosalie Kamansky, Evelyn Stewart, Nancy Mainero, Judy Woodruff, Mrs. Brink, Judy Liefer and Eva Duncan.

Anyone interested in learning more about the programs offered by the YWCA may call 622-1269.

Myrlie Evers speaks out on busing, civil rights

Myrlie Evers of Claremont is a woman whose life has been marked by tragedy, but with determination and a "vision," moved into a new life many miles from her native Mississippi.

Mrs. Evers' husband, Medgar Evers, was field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP). He was shot in the back on June 12, 1963, from ambush as he stood in front of his Jacksonville, Miss., home.

Mrs. Evers, in a recent interview, said after her husband's death, she decided to finish her education.

"I decided to come to California because Medgar had been here and loved it," she said. "I had never been to California, but everything I did then was based on what he had wanted to do, and he had talked of moving here."

The attractive woman had friends searching for colleges and universities so she could check them out.

"When I saw Claremont I said 'Claremont is it!'" Mrs. Evers said. "It was so quiet and good. I've been there ever since." She graduated from Pomona College in 1968, and while an undergraduate, she met Walter Williams, who came to Claremont to talk to black students. They married in July of 1976.

Mrs. Evers said she uses her first husband's name in her professional life.

"That's how people know you, my husband told me," Mrs. Evers said. "He said, 'I know you are my wife.'"

The woman whose first husband had worked to encourage voting registration for black people and for civil rights has spent much of the years since his death in lecturing for civil rights and women's rights.

The past four years she has been corporate director of community affairs for the Atlantic Richfield Co. Mrs. Evers said she competed against 150 other women in the nationwide competition for the job.

"I was asked to compete because it all came out of my criticism of their (ARCO) environmental policies," she said. "Management was intrigued and said, 'Come talk to us and maybe we can change some of these things.'" Her work takes her all over the United States helping in community projects, career readiness programs with emphasis on women and raising the consciousness of career development.

She described some of her work as getting people "away from the Cinderella" syndrome as she meets nationally with women and minorities.

Asked if she thinks the civil rights movement has shown a decreasing momentum, Mrs. Evers said, "Yes,

I do. Over the years, many gains have been lost. The biggest loss is in the attitude of the public in terms of a refusal to admit the problems of the 50s and 60s still exist."

"I am frustrated by my people who 'made it' and have failed to assist others in helping themselves," she said.

"The emphasis is different now," Mrs. Evers said. "I sense a push and need for jobs and dignity coming from another direction — the Spanish community."

When asked her views on the busing of school children, Mrs. Evers paused before giving an answer on whether she approves or disapproves of the system.

"I hate to give a yes or no answer," she said. "Busing is an old tradition in this country. Many of us have been bused — I could have walked to the white school, but had to take the bus to get to the black school."

She contended the busing issue is a major one and she questions the reasons for people not wanting their children moved from one school to another.

Mrs. Evers said the major part of the busing problem is the black-white issue, but she would hope the major issue is to provide, "hopefully, the best education (for all)."

Lewd caller Misrepresents affiliation

The American Cancer Society is warning women that it has not authorized anyone to make calls to obtain personal information.

A man, who calls himself a "Doctor Bellows," has been calling numbers at random throughout the West End and Claremont-Pomona area, saying he is conducting a survey for the American Cancer Society.

Bessie Clark, director of the West End Branch of the San Bernardino County Unit of the American Cancer Society, has stated once again that the man in no way represents the ACS and has no authority to make such calls.

"We get complaints every week from women who have received calls from this man and are naturally very upset," Mrs. Clark said. "He asks very personal questions and has even become very lewd, particularly with elderly women."

She noted that the man has been making the calls since last May and no one has been able to identify him in order to stop the calls.

Women who receive such calls are advised to contact local police agencies.

Young film producers compete in contest

"The Wonders of California" is the theme of a statewide contest in which students of all ages compete to produce the best film and videotape entries.

The contest is open to students at all grade levels, from kindergarten through community college. The entries will be judged in five age categories: kindergarten through third grade, fourth through sixth grade, seventh through ninth grade, tenth through twelfth grade, and community college level. Films and videotapes will be judged separately.

The media festival will be held at Orange Coast College in Costa Mesa on June 2. Winners will be announced and the top twelve entries may be viewed by contestants and the public. An awards ceremony will recognize the first, second and third place entries in each category.

First place winners will receive plaques inscribed with their names and the names of their entries. Other winners will receive certificates. In addition, a sweepstakes award will be given for the best entry in the Festival, and a first, second and third place Theme award for the best entries on the subject of the theme.

The deadline for submitting entries is April 21. Film entries must be on super 8mm, 16mm films may be submitted by colleges only. Videotape entries may be submitted in either of two standard formats (half inch reel-to-reel EIAJ standard or three-quarter inch U-Matic Video Cassette tape). Neither film nor videotape entries should exceed ten minutes in running time.

Entry forms must be submitted with films and videotapes. These forms containing all contest rules are available in most schools and may be obtained by writing Robert Bell, director of educational media, San Bernardino County Schools, 602 South Tippecanoe Ave., San Bernardino.

Each entry will be judged on the basis of content and organization, technical quality, and general effectiveness.

While the general theme of the contest is "The Wonders of California," films and videotapes on other themes will be considered.

The purpose of the contest is to encourage young people to participate in media production, according to Phoebe Webb, co-chairperson for the state festival. "Filmmaking and video production develop skills in composition, drama, graphics, and literature," she asserts.

Woman art museum director was a pioneer

By MARGE GROSS
Staff Writer

When Agnes Mongan was 13, she decided on art as her career.

Miss Mongan became one of the first women museum directors in America. Recently she spoke in Reinhardt Hall, Pomona College, Claremont, on "A Museum Career: Now and Then." She was on a lecture tour to various West Coast colleges and universities, and made her first visit to the Claremont campuses.

In a brief interview before her lecture, Miss Mongan said it was at the breakfast table when her father, a Cambridge, Mass., physician, asked her what she wanted to do with her life.

"I want to know something about those," I told him," she said, "and I pointed to some paintings and silver pieces on the mantle." Her father told her the best education would be necessary and immediately sent for a brochure from Bryn Mawr in Pennsylvania.

Miss Mongan graduated from Bryn Mawr and spent a year in Florence, Italy, studying Italian art and earning her master's degree.

"I had to do six hours of a written exam in English and three hours in Italian," Miss Mongan said, "and then Smith (College, Northampton, Mass.) wouldn't give me the degree because I did not have any art or drawing."

These courses she picked up at Radcliffe College, Boston, Mass., and in 1928 became affiliated with the Fogg Museum at Harvard University at Cambridge, Mass.

Through the years, Miss Mongan said being a woman had some drawbacks.

"Harvard was a curious place in the 1930s," she said. "Being a woman, my name couldn't go in the catalog and I couldn't go in the Harvard Faculty Club — but I got around that — I signed my father's name."

She also said, "We couldn't go in the front door, but had to go in the 'ladies' door."

With a haughty shrug, Miss Mongan proudly said she was responsible for some desegregation.

"I'm allergic to tobacco, so I asked the Faculty Club board if they wouldn't set up a no smoking area in the ladies' dining room. So they turned the ladies' dining room into a non-smoking room and now it's mostly filled with men — that's the thing I'm proudest of."

Miss Mongan became curator of the Fogg Museum and has been a lecturer and student of art ever since. She has traveled throughout the United States and Europe, and is familiar with collections in most noted museums.

She feels the United States museums are "better off without government support," such as the European museums, which are supported. "Our museums do more imaginative things," she said. "And our staffs are better paid." She said more women are being made museums directors, and many are "more qualified than the best man

Agnes Mongan

Scientist to speak at alumni confab

Peter Lissaman, aerodynamicist and theoretician for the first successful human powered flying machine, the Gossamer Condor, will highlight Alumni Day activities March 31 at Harvey Mudd College in Claremont.

Lissaman during a 2 p.m. talk in Galileo Hall will describe the flight of The Condor and the achievement of one of man's oldest dreams — to fly under his own power. In doing so, Lissaman claimed the Kerner Prize and $85,000.

Title of his talk is "Less is Best. The Design and Philosophy of The Gossamer Condor." His lecture will be illustrated with film.

The talk is open to alumni, students and interested members of the public, space permitting. There is no charge.

Following the talk, students and alumni will compete in an aerodynamics contest judged by Lissaman and others. Awards will be given on the basis of distance, length of time in the air and originality of construction. A special award entitled "Least Likely to Cross the English Channel" will also be given.

Bridal seminar planned

The annual spring bridal seminar will be held at Griswold's Indian Hill Inn, Claremont, at 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 28.

Brides-to-be and their mothers are invited to attend the event. The program is designed to help brides in the process of planning their weddings.

Speakers will cover medicine, newspaper contacts, banking, photographs, flowers and bridal attire.

There is no charge for the seminar, and reservations may be made by calling 626-2411, extension 371.

available."

One experience Miss Mongan relived during the interview in the Faculty House on the Claremont colleges campus was sitting in an Ireland restaurant in 1938 at the table next to Anthony Eden, then prime minister of England.

"I saw him receive a special message," she said, "and he left immediately. It happened that I followed him back to London, and the trouble brewing in Munich, Germany, must have concerned that message — of course, Eden didn't even notice me."

When back in London, Miss Mongan, a friend of Kenneth Clark, director of the National Museum, was shown by him how the paintings there could be lifted out of the frames in minutes should it be necessary in case of bombings.

"That was just a dress rehearsal for what happened in 1940," she said, referring to the blitz-bombing of London.

Miss Mongan, now curator emerita of the Fogg Museum, has devoted her life to her love of art, and the art she likes best. "Is what I'm working on at the moment."

Asked how many languages she speaks, this proper, slim woman replied, "Let's see, French, Italian, Spanish and a smattering of German."

She forgot to mention she also speaks "Bostonian."

Woman makes early bid to unseat Lloyd

Fran Livingston

Fran Livingston — board president of the Pomona Unified School District — took an early plunge into the 1980 congressional elections Saturday by announcing her candidacy for the Republican nomination in the 35th District.

The seat, now held by Democrat Jim Lloyd who is in his third term, includes the entire West End and part of Los Angeles County.

In addition to her duties as board president, Mrs. Livingston is an occupational therapist and college instructor.

She is also chairwoman of the Coalition of Concerned School Districts and a delegate to the Federal Relations Network of the National School Boards Association. In a press release, Mrs.

Livingston commented on her early start for the congressional race.

"I have announced my candidacy now because next year, all of the time, campaign funding and action will be with the presidential candidates. There won't be any volunteer effort left to benefit our congressional contests," she said.

Mrs. Livingston added, "In the 12 western states including Hawaii and Alaska, with over 15 million people, there is not one single woman candidate or elected member of Congress.

"I know that I have the experience and background to qualify me as a visible and viable candidate for this office."

Referring to Lloyd, she said, "I am not attacking the incumbent. I just feel that I can represent the interests of the people in our district much better at this time."

However, she added that she "intends to keep the incumbent's feet to the fire getting more service from his office for the district."

Mrs. Livingston noted eight colleges and universities are located in the district and their graduates along with other young people will need jobs.

"More jobs for the average person, that is an issue," she commented.

She also cited the need for better public transportation, the pressures of inflation and perhaps the need to reduce government at the federal level.

Claremont agency plans 3 bus trips

Claremont's Human Services department will again be sponsoring three fun-filled trips during the Easter recess. On April 9, a bus will leave Memorial Park at 9 a.m. and venture to Knott's Berry Farm. The trip will cost $7.50 and the bus will return to Memorial Park at 6 p.m.

On April 10, a bus will magically transport passengers to see the trolls at Magic Mountain. The bus leaves Memorial Park at 9 a.m. and returns at 7 p.m. The cost is $8.50 per person.

The final excursion will be to see a mouse named Mickey and a duck named Donald at their homes in Disneyland. Admission will be $9.50 per person. The bus leaves Memorial Park, located at 840 N. Indian Hill Blvd., Claremont, at 9 a.m. and returns to Memorial Park at 7 p.m. on April 12.

The minimum age for these trips is 7 but those under ten must be accompanied by an adult or older child. There will be supervision on the bus but not at the attractions. NO REFUNDS WILL BE ISSUED.

Registration for any or all of the trips is being taken at Memorial Park, Monday through Friday, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Camps set for diabetic children

Camp Chinnock, a summer camp specially designed for diabetic children, ages 7-16, is accepting applications for three two-week sessions in the San Bernardino Mountains.

The camp is operated by the American Diabetes Association, Southern California Affiliate.

Camp activities include swimming, hiking, archery, canoeing, sports, and arts and crafts. Campers learn to control their diabetes effectively through day-to-day experiences and informal counseling from a staff of doctors, nurses and dietitians.

Session one, for 13-16 year-olds, will run from June 24 through July 5. Session two, for 10-12 year-olds, runs from July 8-19 and the third session, for 7-9 year-olds, is from July 22 through Aug. 2.

Applications for Camp Chinnock may be obtained by calling the American Diabetes Association at (213) 938-7271. Campers are enrolled according to the date of their application and the camp fee is based upon ability to pay.

Dreier heads anti-busing unit

David Dreier, 1978 Republican nominee in the 35th Congressional District, has been named area chairman of a group which opposes a metropolitan plan for the desegregation of Los Angeles schools.

The group calls itself the Congress for the Protection of Neighborhood Schools.

Dreier termed mandatory busing of students for desegregation "a first step toward a life of government regulation."

He said the plan would increase taxes "and further strangle local government's ability to meet its unique community needs."

The group has endorsed Dreier's suggestion of an initiative measure that would end mandatory busing.

Dreier can be contacted by writing P.O. Box 2041, Covina 91722.

Arsonist caught as a frightened witness confides in WE-T.I.P.

By ROBERT P. STUDER
Copley News Service
SACRAMENTO — The woman leaning out the window to get a breath of air was only mildly curious at the surreptitious activity in the shop across the street. It wasn't until the flames erupted — hours later — that she made the connection.

The loss was substantial. The fire had spread to neighboring businesses, too.
Still the woman hesitated to come forward. It was pretty obvious that the man she had seen — and could probably recognize if she saw him again — had played a role in the fire. But women looking out of windows do not want to mess around with arsonists — lest they wake up some night burning up in their own bed.

It wasn't until she spotted the red and white poster tacked to a pole in the vicinity of the fire that she decided to tell what she knew. It promised her complete anonymity. She wouldn't even have to give her name. And if the information led to the arrest and conviction of the arsonist, she could even stand to gain up to $500 as a reward.
She went to a telephone booth and called the toll-free number listed on the poster: (800) 472-7785.

The operator who answered was skilled at drawing out the key points of the information she had to offer. And he didn't ask for her name. Instead, he gave her a code name and a case number with which she might later claim her reward if her information proved to be of value.
It was one more success story in a statewide network designed to provide the most devastating tool with which society can protect itself from the arsonist — a witness.
In the past seven months, since "WE-T.I.P." has expanded its field of interest to include arson, it has received more than 100 such arson tips at its Los Angeles county headquarters. These have resulted in seven arrests and six convictions, according to WE-T.I.P. founder - director Bill Brownell.

So successful has the program become that state fire marshal Philip C. Favro and deputy director Larry Richey of the State Department of Forestry both took time out here to endorse it as "one of the most valuable tools of investigation; one with great promise for helping us combat the growing crime of arson in California."
Arson - for - hire, according to Senate Majority Leader David Roberti, D-Los Angeles, and Senate Minority Leader William Campbell, R-Whittier, is one of the fastest growing of crimes because of the scant attention that it has received in the past from the public.
"Yet," Roberti said, "arson losses average $1 million a month in the city of Los Angeles; $2 billion a year in California. Such fires are responsible for 10,000 injuries a year and is directly responsible for an extra $150 million in fire insurance premiums every year.

"To show how comparatively serious the crime of arson has become," Roberti pointed out, "in 1977, the average loss from robbery was $387; from burglary, $799; for larceny - theft, $316; for auto theft, $1,000. Contrast that with the average loss from arson — $5,580."

Armed with statistics like these, fire officials throughout the state have been zeroing in on the arsonist in California.

Great U.S. westward population shift continues

By DONALD C. BAUDER
Copley News Service

The migration of folks from the Eastern United States to the Western United States goes on.

Fabian Linden, economist for New York's Conference Board, calls this big population shift "The Great American Shuffle," and there is no question that today people are shuffling off from Buffalo rather than to it.

The snow birds are establishing a beachhead in the West, Southwest and other parts of the Sun Belt and the trend is bound to accelerate as the Eastern winters continue to be horrendous and the energy crisis makes home heating more and more expensive.

The Bureau of the Census released figures showing that between 1970 and 1978, the West grew by 15.1 percent and the South by 12.4 percent. By contrast, the Northeast "has virtually stopped growing," said the Census Bureau, while the North Central region has grown just 2.9 percent over the period.

Indeed, Conference Board data indicate that some of the largest Eastern and Middle Western metropolitan areas (both cities and their suburbs) are losing population: From 1970 to 1975, the New York metropolitan area was going down in population by 0.4 percent annually, while Cleveland was off 0.6, Pittsburgh 0.6 and St. Louis 0.3.

The Sun Belt? Miami's population was up 4.4 percent each year, while Houston was up 2.8 annually. In recent years, San Diego's population has been growing at 2.5 to 3.5 percent a year.

With people comes money. Linden noted that although the Pacific States' relative per capita income has declined somewhat — it once exceeded the national average by 11.5 percent but now exceeds it by 9.5 — "the region is still the most prosperous section of the country."

"It continues to have the highest per capita income. While about 13.5 percent of the nation's total population live in the five states constituting the Pacific region, more than 14.5 percent of total disposable personal income flows into the area.

"There is a high incidence of relatively prosperous homes in the area. More than 32 percent of all families have annual earnings in excess of $20,000 — a proportion exceeding that found in all other sections of the country."

Walter Hoadley, economist and executive vice president for Bank of America, noted, "The nation now has a two-tier economy — the recession-prone Northeast and the substantially employed rest of the country." Any 1979 recession will likely occur in the Northeast, said

Hoadley.

Intelligent consumer companies are alert to these trends, of course, and are trying to expand Westward with the population. One of the largest privately held companies in the United States — Minneapolis' Carlson Companies Inc. — was reconnoitering San Diego with the intention of tightening its foothold.

Curtis L. Carlson, the nationally known entrepreneur who founded the company 41 years ago, has been huddling with franchisees of Country Kitchen International.

Chicken has become a luxury food

By MARJORIE RICE
Copley News Service

Chicken used to be something we reserved for family, reserving more spiffy food for company and special occasions. But with food prices the way they are, chicken is becoming a luxury.

And chicken pictured here is about as spiffy as it can get. Breasts are boned, then simmered a quick 15 or 20 minutes. A gelatin-based glaze dresses them up for a special event. Cut little decorations from olives and parsley if you really want to impress someone.

Buy whole chicken and do the cutting yourself. Serve the breasts for this meal (they're probably the easiest piece of chicken to bone), and save the other parts for barbecue or frying.

The boned chicken breasts are wrapped around a pimiento-stuffed olive filling that adds a tangy flavor. They're served chilled, so make a good dinner party entree.

The glazing is deceptively easy. Blend the cooking broth with cream thickened with gelatin and spoon it on. You can do all this the day before you plan to serve it.

Spanish Glazed Chicken

1/3 cup (2 ozs.) pine nuts
2 tbsps. olive oil
2/3 cup finely chopped shallots or scallions
1/2 cup chopped pimiento-stuffed olives
3 tbsps. chopped parsley
1/2 tsp. grated lemon peel
4 large chicken breasts, skinned, halved and boned
1 cup chicken stock
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 cup heavy cream
Whole pimiento-stuffed olives
1/2 cup water
Parsley
Cooked asparagus tips
Boston lettuce
Olive Mayonnaise

In large skillet, saute pine nuts in oil until lightly browned. Add 1/3 cup of the shallots and saute until tender but not browned; stir in chopped olives, chopped parsley and lemon peel.

Place each piece of chicken between two pieces of wax paper and flatten with rolling pin. Place about 1 1/2 tablespoons olive mixture in center of each chicken piece and roll up; secure with wooden picks.

Place in large skillet with remaining 1/3 cup shallots and the stock. Cover and simmer 15 minutes, turning chicken once. Remove chicken, cool, then cover and chill.

Meanwhile, boil down liquid in skillet until reduced to 1/2 cup. Soften 1 envelope of the gelatin in cream; add to reduced liquid and heat until gelatin dissolves. Remove wooden picks and place chicken breasts on rack over a tray.

Cool poached chicken breasts, glistening with a pretty glaze, make both a cool and highly satisfying meal for guests or family. They are easy to prepare ahead for relaxed entertaining. Serve with fresh vegetables, steamed tender-crisp, and a bottle of good wine.

Place cream mixture over bowl of ice and stir until it thickens to about the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Spoon over chicken. Chill chicken until glaze sets. Repeat glazing and chilling until all glaze is used. Any glaze left in pan under rack may be reheated and chilled to proper consistency for glazing.

Slice a few pimiento-stuffed olives for garnish. To hold garnish in place, soften remaining envelope of gelatin in 1/2 cup water and heat until dissolved; cool. Dip olive slices and parsley in the clear gelatin and arrange on chicken. Spoon remaining gelatin over chicken breasts. Chill. Arrange chicken breasts, asparagus and remaining whole olives in lettuce-lined dish. Serve with Olive Mayonnaise. Serves four to six persons.

Very Strawberry Pie

2 pints fresh strawberries
2/3 cup sugar
2 tbsps. unflavored gelatin
3 tbsps. water
1 tsp. lemon juice
9-inch baked pie shell
Puree 1 pint strawberries in blender. Force through fine sieve to remove seeds. Mix sugar and gelatin in saucepan; stir in water and lemon juice. Stir over low heat until gelatin and sugar dissolve; combine with strawberry puree.

Chill puree mixture until consistency is slightly thicker than unbeaten egg white. Pour half the mixture into pie shell. Arrange remaining pint strawberries in shell; spoon remaining puree mixture on top. Chill pie until set.

Use any type crust you like — but this pie is sensational with this Coconut Meringue Pie Shell. Recipe given below.

Coconut Meringue Pie Shell

2/3 cup flaked coconut
Confectioners' sugar (about 3 tbsps.)
2 egg whites
1/2 tsp. salt
2/3 cup granulated sugar
1/2 tsp. vanilla

Toss coconut with just enough confectioners' sugar to coat lightly; set aside. Combine egg whites and salt; beat until foamy. Gradually add granulated sugar, beating well after each addition. Continue beating until stiff peaks form.

Fold in vanilla and coconut. Spread over bottom and sides of greased 9-inch pie plate. Bake in 325-degree oven 30 minutes, or until meringue feels dry and firm. Cool before filling.

Yogurt-Lime Chicken

1/2 cup plain yogurt
1 tsp. seasoned salt
1/4 tsp. lemon pepper
1/2 tsp. basil, crumbled
4 half breasts of chicken, boned
1/2 cup wheat germ
1/4 cup Tequila
8 tbsps. melted butter

Combine yogurt, seasoned salt, lemon pepper and basil in shallow dish. Roll chicken breasts in mixture to coat, then in wheat germ. Arrange in buttered pan. Bake in 400-degree oven 20 minutes.

Combine tequila and butter and spoon over chicken. Return to oven for 10 to 15 minutes, or until chicken is tender. Makes four servings.

Hamburgers

Broil hamburger patties on one side. Turn and crown each one with a slice of canned pineapple. Stir a little mayonnaise into grated cheese and spread over top. Broil until bubbly and browned.

Use wheat germ in next meatloaf

There are hundreds of exciting ways to use wheat germ, so let your imagination flow and enjoy a beautiful food. This amazing cereal is ready to eat as purchased. It fits into recipes of all categories with the greatest of ease.

The person on the go who likes to feel fit will find vacuum packed wheat germ an ideal food for both energy and appetite appeasement. Its protein, mineral and vitamin content is impressive as you will note from the label on the jar. Look for both regular wheat germ and wheat germ with sugar and honey.

Savory Wheat Germ Beef Loaf (Microwave Method)

(Microwave Time: 12 minutes)
1 pound lean ground beef
1/4 cup vacuum packed wheat germ, regular
1 egg
1/2 cup plain yogurt
1/4 cup minced parsley
1/4 cup grated carrot or finely chopped celery
3 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dill weed
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Combine all ingredients. Mound mixture in 8-inch glass pie plate. Cover with wax paper. Cook with full power in microwave oven 6 minutes. Turn plate halfway around. Cook 3 minutes. Uncover and cook 3 to 4 minutes longer. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Makes 4 servings.

RING MOLD VARIATION: Combine 1 1/2 pounds lean ground beef, 1/3 cup EACH minced parsley, grated carrot and finely chopped onion, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 3/4 teaspoon dill weed, 1/4 teaspoon allspice and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Press into 6-cup ceramic ring mold or cake pan with center tube. Cover with wax paper. Cook with full power in microwave oven 6 minutes. Turn mold halfway around. Cook 3 minutes. Uncover and cook 3 to 4 minutes longer. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Makes 6 servings.

Savory Wheat Germ Beef Loaf (Conventional Method)

1 pound lean ground beef
1/4 cup vacuum packed wheat germ, regular
1 egg
1/2 cup plain yogurt
1/4 cup minced parsley
1/4 cup grated carrot or finely chopped celery
3 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dill weed
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Combine all ingredients. Press firmly into buttered 7 1/2 x 3 1/2 x 2-inch loaf pan. Bake uncovered in 350 degree oven 45 to 50 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes. Turn out onto serving plate. Makes 4 servings.

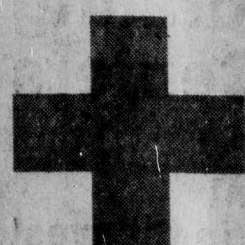

RING MOLD VARIATION: Double all ingredients. Press into buttered 1 1/2-quart ring mold. Bake in 350 degree oven 50 to 55 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

Hot Cross Buntt cake is the ideal dessert for Easter festivities. After church, have a lieurely brunch then serve this delicious cake which can be baked the day ahead. The cake also can be on hand for cake and coffee when friends drop in to chat.

Festive meal

Make desserts ahead for Easter

Easter is a traditional time for friends and relatives to join for a festive meal.

A leisurely brunch after church is a popular way to celebrate the day and welcome spring.

Brunch food that can be prepared in advance is a boon for busy cooks. These two recipes both make moist Buntt cakes that can be baked a day ahead. As a bonus, the fluted ring shape is a decorative addition to your table. If your group is large, you might want to make one of each.

A not-too-sweet pound cake makes a good finale for brunch. Hot Cross Buntt takes the traditional raisins and spices from hot cross buns and adds them to pound cake ring mix. Grated orange rind is a less traditional addition, but it adds a refreshing flavor.

Use the 24 3/4 oz. pound cake mix for a rich, fine-grained cake that fills the 12 cup Buntt pan. Crosses of powdered sugar icing effectively decorate this Easter brunch dessert.

Pineapple Glazed Lemon Blueberry Buntt is another good pound-type cake for the brunch crowd. Crushed pineapple is added to lemon blueberry ring cake mix, while the pineapple juice goes into a hot syrup that soaks into the cake and glazes the top as it cools.

This good tasting cake uses ingredients that are easy to keep on hand. It is a good recipe to remember for other coffee and cake occasions.

Hot Cross Buntt Cake

1 pkg. pound cake Buntt cake mix
1 cup dairy sour cream
1/2 cup water
1/4 cup margarine or butter, softened
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
1 teaspoon almond extract
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
3 eggs
1 cup raisins

Crosses

1/4 cup powdered sugar
1 1/2 to 2 teaspoons milk
Heat oven to 325 degrees F. Grease and flour 12-cup fluted tube pan. In large bowl, blend 2 clear packets of cake mix and remaining cake ingredients until moistened. Beat 2 minutes at medium speed (portable mixer use highest speed). Pour into prepared pan. Bake at 325 degrees F. for 50 to 60 minutes. Cool upright in pan on cooling rack (about 45 minutes); invert onto serving plate and cool completely.

In small bowl, combine topping packet, powdered sugar and milk until smooth. With small spoon, drizzle glaze on wide ridges of cake to form 8 crosses equal distance apart. Store tightly covered. 16 servings.

Pineapple Glazed Lemon Blueberry Buntt

1 pkg. lemon blueberry buntt cake mix

1/4 cup water
1/4 cup margarine or butter, softened or oil
8-oz. can crushed pineapple; drain and reserve syrup
3 eggs

Heat oven to 325 degrees F. Grease and flour 12-cup fluted tube pan. Rinse and drain blueberries from mix. In large bowl, blend cake mix, water, margarine, drained pineapple and eggs until moistened. Beat 2 minutes at medium speed (portable mixer use highest speed). Stir in drained blueberries. Pour into prepared pan. Bake at 325 degrees F. for 30 to 40 minutes.

In small saucepan, combine glaze packet and reserved pineapple syrup. Heat to boiling over medium heat; continue cooking until mixture becomes clear, stirring occasionally. Remove cake from oven and place on cooling rack. Pour hot syrup around outer edges of cake in pan. Cool in pan, 10 minutes; invert onto serving plate. Store loosely covered. 16 servings.

Weather affects produce industry

Unpredictable weather continues to affect the fresh produce industry, causing some temporary damage.

An abundance of fruit has brought tomato prices down. Eastern demand is down due to harsh weather while Mexican production is up. Quality continues to be a problem.

Local strawberries received some rain damage the week of Feb. 19. Volume on local berries will increase with warmer weather. Meanwhile, Florida continues to ship quality fruit. Prices are high.

Large size avocados are presently scarce. Sources believe crop loss due to the December freeze may have been heavier than expected and could have curtailed the fruit size. Small sizes are available though and prices are reasonable. More of the dark skinned Hass variety should be available in March.

On the citrus scene, Texas has about finished their shipping season. Their season was cut short by two major freezes in December. The status of California and Florida citrus remains about the same. Also, not much change to report on apples. Prices and quality both remain steady.

Supply of fish is decreasing

By DANIEL P. PUZO
Copley News Service

Rarely is a food source abused to the extent that it may become endangered.

Most are properly managed, distributed and then replenished.

There is one group, though, that faces some stormy waters. The statistics paint a grim horizon. According to the federal government, America relies on only six types of fish for more than 60 percent of its seafood supply.

Some of these fish have been seriously depleted. But because of a lack of consumer knowledge about any other varieties, the six mainstays are continuously harvested from the sea. This ever-fishing is an on-going flirtation with extinction.

It is no surprise that the six are tuna, salmon, flounder, cod, shrimp and lobster. All others are generally ignored.

The scenario of depleted stocks of tuna does not complete the picture. The ocean varieties of fish that U.S. fishermen fail to harvest are being lost by the ton to foreign fleets even within our 200-mile territorial limits.

The ignored species will have to become the familiar ones of the future if the consumer is to avoid spending more than $6 or $7 a pound for a few select pieces of fish.

There is more to be gained from increasing the selection of seafood than saving the overused varieties.

The fishing industry could potentially be expanded by millions, and even billions, of dollars if a wider and larger selection of fish was to be consumed by the American public. The industry expansion would mean more jobs and more tax revenues in addition to more entrees.

One of the problems the Commerce Dept. faces, though, is that some of these fish have less than appealing names. There is a program to rename some of the more offensive sounding such as, spiny dogfish, croaker, cancer crab, ocean quahog and weakfish.

Regardless of the off-titles the taste of these fish currently is appealing to many other countries. In cities where there is a significant international community the demand for some of these varieties already is present. Not only is there a demand for croaker and mullet, but the price is extremely reasonable in comparison to the glamour fish.

Quality Seafood in Redondo Beach stocks some of the less popular fish. They sell fresh Spanish mackerel, mullet, croaker (king fish) and squid, which are all targeted by the Commerce Dept. for promotions.

Quality Seafood inadvertently helped change the name of some of these items. Croaker is titled "king fish" because it's a "good selling name," says Joe Aiken of the market.

Aiken says that these fish are mostly bought by Asians, and primarily Phillipinos.

Lesser known varieties are usually sold whole as opposed to processed (cleaned and filleted). Only the cost of gutting and cleaning is built into the whole fish, thus their low price.

Additionally, one of the benefits of a fish such as the Spanish mackerel is that it doesn't have to be filleted. "For Spanish mackerel you just butterfly it, broil it and it's delicious," says Aiken.

"Fish is only as good as you prepare it. You can get a very good meal from a lesser known fish if you are willing to do a little preparation," he says.

The lesser known fish is used in the following recipe.

Spanish Mackerel Casserole Dinner

1 1/2 pounds Spanish mackerel fillets or other fish fillets, fresh or frozen
1 tsp. salt
Dash pepper
1 can (8 ozs.) whole kernel corn, drained
1 can (8 ozs.) French style green beans, drained
1 can (1 pound) sliced potatoes, drained
1 tsp. salt
Dash pepper
1 can (10 3/4 ozs.) cream of celery soup
1/4 cup melted margarine or cooking oil
2 tbsps. lemon juice
2 tbsps. grated onion
2 tbsps. chopped parsley
2 medium tomatoes, sliced
1/4 cup mild Cheddar cheese

Thaw fish if frozen. Skin fillets. Cut fillets into serving-size portions and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Layer corn, beans, and potatoes in a well-greased casserole dish, 11.75x7.5x1.75 inches.

Sprinkle each layer with salt and pepper. Spread undiluted celery soup over potatoes. Combine margarine, lemon juice, onion and parsley. Dip fish into mixture and arrange on top of vegetables.

Cover with tomato slices and sprinkle with cheese. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 30 to 40 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Makes six servings.

It's a whole new ballgame

Hoopsters wheel into playoffs

By DONALD J. NEWMAN
Staff Writer

Pomona's Casa Colina Condors, ranked fifth in the National Wheelchair Basketball Association, earned a berth in the national playoffs after sweeping sectional competition in San Diego during the weekend.

Center Curtis Bell, sporting a 25.2 points per game average, earned the most valuable player award for the three-game series. Calvin Young logged a three-game average of 12 points while teammate Jim Worth tallied 10 points per game.

The Condors will be facing Chicago's Cagers, which coach Frank Burns described as a "well-balanced, well-experienced" team in San Jose the weekend of March 30.

Burns, a recreational therapist at the Casa Colina Hospital for Rehabilitative Medicine, said he was delighted with his team's performance.

The Condors whipped the Edmonton Northern Lights 69-42, the Vancouver Cable Cars, 59-45 and the Cypress College Chariots 57-41.

"They maintained the game, followed directions very well and followed the game plan," said Burns, who is a little wary of the Chicago team.

"We're probably the underdogs" for the tournament, said Burns, adding that the Chicago crew has been playing together for 15 years.

Looking ahead two weeks, Burns philosophized, "The defense always wins the big ones and that's what we're going to try to do."

Chicago is good inside and they are fast, he said.

The Condors will "try to control the ball and not let them get inside."

The Condors currently boast a 14-1 league record with a 30-5 season total, according to Burns, who is optimistic about his team's chances for the "big one."

"We have a very good team, we really do," he said during a previous interview when he talked about wheelchair basketball and its place in American sports. Burns is proud of a team doing so well for the first year the members have played together.

Some of the members played for a team sponsored by Chaffey College until Proposition 13 budget cuts forced the school to divest itself of the team. The players started their own team and with a $10,000 grant from the Casa Colina Hospital Women's Auxiliary proceeded under the sponsorship of the hospital.

The Condors are "probably one of the tallest, fastest teams in the country," said Burns, adding they also have good outside shooting and are an excellent inside team.

Although wheelchair basketball has received little of the publicity accorded other sports, it has been around since 1949 and has grown phenomenally, according to Burns, who said the 50 teams in 1970 have expanded to 130 teams in 22 conferences across the country. He predicted the number of teams will double during the next 10 years.

How does Burns account for the spurt of interest in the sport as demonstrated by the suddenly huge number of participants?

"Because of the role wheelchair sports plays in rehabilitation...because he (a player) loses the use of his legs...the person's still the same." He has not lost the normal drives

"There isn't a better outlet (for these drives) than the red-blooded outlet of American sports."

Basketball has remained "relatively intact," despite minor changes in the National Collegiate Athletic Association rules, said Burns, explaining that the alterations have been made to accommodate the decreased agility of the players.

A player must dribble the ball at least once for every two pushes of the chair, if he intends to keep it, or pass. An offensive player may stay in the lane under his own basket for five seconds instead of the normal three.

The only major rule change was made to ensure that the physical capabilities of the opposing teams remained equal. Each player is classified according to the severity of his disability and assigned a point value. Those with the least impaired performance are valued at three points while the most severely handicapped are assigned a point value of one. A coach can only have 12 points on the floor at one time. So if his strongest players were on the hardwood, there would be only four of them.

Players often use specially designed chairs to give them greater speed and mobility, according to Burns, who added many players strip their chairs of unnecessary weight and make some of their own modifications.

Although there is an obvious difference between players who use wheelchairs and those who do not, the players are all treated the same by their coaches, said Burns, emphasizing that disabled players get no special treatment.

"I treat them as athletes," not as anything else. "I yell at them, I scream at them, I get mad at them," he said.

"They need to be treated as human beings."
